

Note on Contributors (in order of appearance)

Mursed Alam: Mursed Alam teaches in Gour College, West Bengal. He was Charles Wallace fellow in 2018 for his works in British Library and SOAS.

Anindya Sekhar Purakayastha: Professor Anindya Sekhar Purakayastha teaches in Kazi Nazrul University, West Bengal. He is currently a Fulbright Visiting Fellow for a Research Project to be conducted in University of Massachusetts, Amherst in 2018-19 on Revisiting Cosmopolitanism in a Xenophobic World through a Comparative Study of W. E. B DuBois and B R Ambedkar for Global Solidarity and Social Justice. He is also the director of an ICCSSR funded major research project on New Social Movements, Media and Civil Society in Contemporary India: Paradigm Shifts in Public Protests and Political Mobilizations.

Amanda González Izquierdo: Amanda González Izquierdo is a PhD student at the department of Comparative Literature at Rutgers University—New Brunswick. She holds a B.A. from Florida International University, where she majored in English, minored in Philosophy, and completed a certificate in Latin American and Caribbean Studies.

Suzanne LaLonde: Suzanne LaLonde holds a Ph.D. in French Literature and serves as an Instructor in the Honors College at Texas Tech University where she teaches “Humanities Driven STEM” courses, such as on the natural world and the literature of naturalists and “French Nature Writing and the Nature of Writing”. Her area of research centers on Francophone Literature, Trauma Studies, and stories of resilience from non-Western communities. Her book An Alchemy of the Mind: Trauma, Post-Traumatic Growth, and the Literary Arts is currently under contract with Routledge.

Zachary Vincent Bordas: Zachary Bordas is an MA student in the Department of English at The University of Georgia. His greater research interests include examining the effects of religious marginalization, as well as the role of surveillance and technology in postcolonial novels. These areas of interest help him understand the lingering effects that British imperialism in the Indian subcontinent.

Bhushan Sharma and Anurag Kumar: Bhushan Sharma (Author) is a Ph. D. student and Dr. Anurag Kumar (Co-author) is an Assistant Professor in the School of Languages and Literature at Shri Mata Vaishno Devi University, Katra, J&K, India. He is Ph. D. from IIT Roorkee and published his book African American Literature: Politics of Marginal Space in the Fiction of Gloria Naylor.

Paul Woods: Paul Woods is a research tutor at the Oxford Centre for Mission Studies, specialising in East and Southeast Asia. His principal research concerns representation of gender, ethnicity, and location in regional literary fiction.

Saima Bashir and Sohail Ahmad Saeed: Saima Bashir is currently doing PhD at the Department of English, The Islamia University of Bahawalpur and is serving as Lecturer in English at the Higher Education Department of the Punjab Government of Pakistan since 2012. Dr. Sohail Ahmad Saeed is Assistant Professor at the Department of English, The Islamia University of Bahawalpur. He supervised Ms. Bashir's M.Phil. research in English literature at the said department of The Islamia University of Bahawalpur, Pakistan.

Praveen Sewgobind: Praveen Sewgobind is a PhD researcher embedded within the Research Training Group Minor Cosmopolitanisms at Potsdam University. He explores the nexus of South Asian diaspora memory, migration, and decolonial cosmopolitanism. He holds a BA in English and an MA in Cultural Analysis, both from the University of Amsterdam.

Kavita Malstead: Born in America and raised in India, she is a student at Berea College pursuing a degree in English Literature and Creative Writing

Shibaji Mridha: Shibaji Mridha is pursuing his second M.A. in Literature and Writing at Kent State University, Ohio, USA, as a Graduate Assistant in the Department of English. Prior to that, he taught in the Department of English at Eastern University, Dhaka, Bangladesh, as a Senior Lecturer since 2012. He completed his B.A. (Hons.) in English and Masters in English Literature from the University of Dhaka, Bangladesh. His areas of interest are Gender and Sexuality Studies, Ecocriticism, and Postcolonial Studies.

Sagnik Yadaw: Sagnik Yadaw has a Masters of Arts in English from Calcutta University and is presently working at Kalyani University as a Junior Research Fellow. He has published articles in refereed journals as well as an edited volume and has presented papers in both International conferences and UGC-sponsored National seminars.

Rupsa Roy Chowdhury: Rupsa Roy Chowdhury has a Masters of Arts in English from Calcutta University and is presently working at Rishi Bankim Chandra College as a lecturer. She has published articles in refereed journals as well as an edited volume and has presented papers in both International conferences and UGC-sponsored National seminars.

Saswat Samai Das: Dr Saswat Samai Das is Associate Professor in the department of Humanities and Social Sciences, Indian Institute of Technology, Kharagpur. He works in Critical Theory and Continental Thinking, Postcolonial and Postmodern Studies, and Deleuze Studies. His forthcoming works include Deleuze and Terror published by Edinburgh University Press.

Deepak Mathew: Deepak Mathew is a Research Scholar at Indian Institute of Technology, Kharagpur. His research interests include Zizek Studies, Deleuze Studies and Ecopolitics.

